

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF DENTAL HYGIENISTS

Dear Colleagues,

The International Symposium on Dental Hygiene (ISDH) is THE event for Dental Hygienists globally.

After the very successful symposium in Brisbane, Australia in 2019, followed by two traumatic years of Covid-19 pandemic restrictions and not being able to travel or to visit congresses and symposia at all, we are all very much looking forward to ISDH 2022 in Dublin, Ireland from 11th to 13th August 2022.

Although restrictions remain in some parts of world, Ireland is now open for visitors. Most restrictions have been lifted since late January 2022 and we trust this trend will continue in the rest of the world, especially during summertime in Europe. In relation to vaccinations, Ireland ranks as one of the highest countries in the world with >80% of its population vaccinated and this number continues to rise.

The Irish Local Organizing Committee, the IFDH Scientific Committee and our professional congress organizers, together with the support of our corporate partners, have succeeded in compiling a wonderful scientific program with international speakers from 19 different countries. A truly international Symposium indeed!

We look forward to three full days of scientific lectures, workshops and poster presentations, together with an exhibition of over 600 sqm. ISDH 2022 will give you the opportunity to learn what developments have taken place in the field of dental hygiene over the last few years and will give you the latest insights in science, new materials and products. Please see the full program on the website www.isdh2022.com.

Furthermore, attendees are invited to attend a spectacular opening ceremony, a welcome reception in the award winning Convention Center Dublin, plus an evening in Ireland's number one tourist attraction, The Guinness Storehouse and Brewery. This is a fantastic opportunity to visit the medieval city of Dublin full of historic highlights and known for its warm welcome. There are opportunities to take a trip to the lovely Irish countryside before, during or after the symposium. ISDH2022 will be an event never to forget.

For the latest information about the Symposium, the program, possible Covid-19 restrictions, and information on symposium terms and conditions, be sure to sign up to our newsletter at www.isdh2022.com.

I am very much looking forward to meeting you, colleagues from all over the world, in Dublin, Ireland in August 2022!

Yours truly,

Corrie Jongbloed-Zoet
President, IFDH
